Numb. 2493

Saturday, June 18. 1743.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

Petersbourg, June 1.

ON the 26th of last Month the French Ambassador had a particular Audience of her Imperial Majesty, in order to compliment her, in the Name of his Court, on her declaring the Duke of Holstein Heir apparent to the Empire. We have Advice here, that Marshal Lacy had passed by Helsingfors with the Fleet of Gallies under his Command. General Keith was a whole Day in Sight of the Swedes, without being able to attack them, the Wind being contrary. The very last Express we had from Abo says, that the Swedes had absolutely refus'd to accept the Ultimatum of this Court, and that another had been proposed from Stockholm, on which, it was believed, the Peace would be concluded.

Stockholm, June 11. A Sloop is just arrived here with the Russian Prisoners, taken in the last Battle at Sea, and Hundance of our own Seamen who were wounded in that Engagement. We have Advice that Major-General Rudenfeldt has made himself Master of several of the Russian Magazines in Finland. All military Preparations are carried on here with as great Heat as ever, and yet we expect every Moment the News of a Peace. The Intrigues in the Dyet are as great as ever, though it is pretty certain that the Holstein Party begins to recover itself. Baron Bodenbrok, who was sentenced to lose his Head, has appealed to the Dyet, and it is generally believed, that when all other Affairs are settled, he will either be pardoned, or have his Sentence much mitigated.

Copenhagen, June 14. Ten Men of War are actually in our Road, and the rest are every Day getting out; the 17th is actually fix'd for the Embarkation of the Troops. His Majesty has caused Brandy, Beer, Bread, and Fresh Provisions, to be distributed among the Seamen, who have made extraordinary Rejoicings, in Acknowledgment of his Majesty's Favour. The mysterious Conduct of our Court puzzles the greatest Politicians; because, according to all the Advices from Petersbourg and Stockholm, Things are on the Point of being adjusted between those Courts; and then, it should seem, that our Armament will be to no manner of Purpose.

Lisbon, May 21. His Majesty continues to make Use of the Hot Baths, and, according to the Accounts publish'd here, is much better. The Day before Yesterday the Ambassador from England landed here, since then it is strongly reported, that Three large Spanish Privateers had taken several Sail of English Ships bound for this Port.

Madrid, June 4. The new Minister has caused a large Account to be published, of the Defeat of the English at Porto Cavallo, and of the Loss they sustained there, on Account of which great Rejoicings have been made. On the 30th of last Month there was grand Gala at Court, on Account of its being the Feast of St. Ferdinand, consequently the Name-Day of his Royal Highness the Prince of Asturias. We see here a List of the Army of the Infant Don Philip, by which it appears, that it consists at least of 27,000 effective Men, and, it is said, that they began to take the Field the 25th of this Month.

Prague, June 12. This Morning at Nine o'Clock arrived M. Franchini, Aid-de-Camp to Prince Charles of Lorrain, preceded by Four Postilions sounding their Horns, with Advice, That our Troops had passed the Danube and the Iser, and that a little beyond Straubing his Highness had defeated a Body of some thousand French, and made himself Master of all their Baggage. General Festetitz is arriv'd here, in order to give an Account of the late Seizure he made of Persons as well as Provisions near Egra. This is said to be owing to the Representations of the Court of Dresden, tho' the better Part of the Politicians here imagine, that this is meerly a Matter of Form, and that the Two Courts understand each other perfectly well.

Ratisbon, June 17. Several Boats are arriv'd in our Neighbourhood, which are carrying wounded Austrians to Stadtamhoff, whence we conclude, that the Report of an Action was not ill grounded. Prince Lobkowitz having Intelligence that the French had abandon'd the City of Newmarck, had order'd a Detachment to go and take Possession of it. Prince Charles of Lorrain encamped on the 12th at Schierling, continu'd his March the 13th, and encamped that Night at Robe; on the 14th he advanced to Segenbourg, from thence, on the 15th, to Geissenfeldt, which is but three Leagues from Ingoldstadt. That, on the other hand, Prince Lobkowitz had advanc'd to Foring on the left Bank of the Danube, and much about the same Distance from the last mention'd City. As the Emperor's Army under the Count de Seckendorff is in the Neighbourhood of Ingoldstat, and within five Miles of the French Troops under the Command of Marshal Broglio, we expect to hear shortly of a Battle, the rather, because it is certain that Prince Charles is resolved to fight at any Rate, before they are join'd by the Detachment that is said to be marching towards them from their Army on the Rhine.

Extract of a Private Letter from a French Officer in the Camp in the Neighbourhood of Ingoldstadt, dated June 12.

'We left Ratisbon on Monday the 10th of this Month, 'after having withdrawn our Garison at Weix, which 'it was absolutely necessary for us to abandon, and having sent before our Hospitals, Baggage, and what 'could be saved of our Magazines, we continued to retreat by Kelheim, Neustadt, and Vohbourg, and arriv'd 'Yesterday a League and half from Ingoldstadt, where 'our Army is encamp'd at present. The Troops of the 'Emperor are not far off. It is pretty certain we shall 'continue here To-day, but God only knows what will 'become of us To-morrow. Some say, that we shall 'encamp under the Cannon of Ingoldstadt, and there 'wait for the Enemy; others will have it, that we shall 'march strait on to Neuberg and Donawert, where we 'expect to find 12 Battalions, and some Squadrons of 'Horse from the Rhine. Our Equipage is begun to 'march already.'

Franckfort, June 20. His Britannic Majesty having Intelligence that the French intended to seize the important Post of Aschaffenbourg, sent immediately an Express to Mr. Villers, his Resident at the Court of the Elector of Mentz, with Orders to represent to his Electoral Highness the absolute Necessity he was under of being before-hand with the Marshal de Noailles in occupying that Place, which belongs to his Electoral Highness. On the 17th of this Month the Army of the Allies began to march that Way, and the Detachment in the Van arriving there before the French, who were actually in Motion to surprize the same Place, possessed themselves of it, and of the Stone Bridge over the Maine. His Excellency the Earl of Stair has actually transferr'd thither his Head Quarters. This Day several Thousand fresh Hanoverian Troops passed by this City, in their March towards the Army. That of France encamp'd the Day before Yesterday at Diepurgh, some Leagues from Darmstadt; and as they seem dispos'd to advance still farther, we make no Question but that in a few Days we shall have the News of a decisive Action between the two Armies. Yesterday Morning, about Four o'Clock, we heard a general Discharge of all the Artillery on the Ramparts of Hanau, which we know was occasion'd by the Arrival of his Britannic Majesty; at Five o'Clock we heard another general Discharge of the same Artillery, on account of his setting out for the Camp. The Hessians are already arrived in the Country of Nassau, and are making forc'd Marches to reach the Army of the Allies, where Baron Trenck is likewise expected at the Head of 6000 Croats, Licanians, and Pandours.

P.S. We have just now Advice, that Marshal Broglio having put a strong Garison into Ingoldstadt, continued his March with the utmost Expedition to Donawert, where he was soon after join'd by the Reinforcement sent him under the Command of the Count de Segur; that the whole Army encamped afterwards near Fort Schellenberg, where they were oblig'd to entrench themselves in Haste, on Account of the Approach of Prince Charles and Prince Lobkowitz with their Armies; so that we very speedily expect to hear of a decisive Action on that Side also.

Hague, June 26. The Marquis de Fenelon conferr'd lately with the principal Members of the Government, to whom he made very warm Representations on the approaching March of our Troops, and on the great Forwardness shewn by the States of Holland, in offering to advance the Quotas of the other Provinces, till such Time as they come to a Resolution of paying their respective Proportions; but we do not know what follow'd upon these Representations. A Courier arrived here Yesterday in the Evening from Hanover, who brings Advice, that the Lady Carteret died suddenly there, on Thursday the 20th Instant, N.S.

LONDON.

Some private Letters from Stockholm say, that by the unanimous Consent of the several Orders of the Dyet, the 6th Instant is fixed for the Election of a Successor to the Crown, when it is believed the Bishop of Lubeck will be chosen.

There are some private Letters from Hamburgh which say, that the Muscovites had made another Descent on, and a Conquest of, the Island of Ahland; whereas the Letters from Dantzick affirm they were repuls'd with great Loss.

It is confirmed that Friedbergh is taken, and the Imperial Garison had capitulated on this Condition, that they should not serve, during a whole Year, against the Queen of Hungary, or her Allies. The Austrians are now before Landsberg, which is a stronger Place, and better fortified, but has not so numerous a Garison.

His Polish Majesty has acceded to the late Defensive Alliance between the Crowns of Russia and Great Britain, and has appointed Ministers Plenipotentiaries to carry this Resolution to both Courts.

The Terms offer'd his Imperial Majesty under the Mediation of a certain Court, having been by him communicated to the Court of Berlin, his Prussian Majesty press'd him to accept them instantly; and some Letters say, the Preliminaries between his Imperial Majesty and the Queen of Hungary are actually signed.

It is generally conceived, that notwithstanding all the fair Words given them by M. Noailles, the Swiss in the French Service absolutely decline passing the Rhine, and are therefore employ'd to guard the Bridges upon that River.

Some Letters by the last French Mail say, that his most Christian Majesty had caused a Declaration to be made to the Prince of Grimberghuen, his Imperial Majesty's Ambassador, that next Month he would send (if it was desired) a new Army of Auxiliaries into Bavaria.

The Elector Palatine's Troops under the Command of General Zastrow, quitted the Imperial Army on the 15th, N. S. with the Consent of the Marshals Seckendorff and Broglio, and retired into the Duchy of Newburgh.

M. de Voltaire, the famous French Poet, is said to be charged with a secret Commission to the Court of Berlin, but whether with regard to War or Peace is not certain.

Extract of a Letter from on board the Edinburgh, Tarlton, dated March 6, at Axim, on the Coast of Africa.

'Two Spanish Privateers are on the Coast, and have 'done the following Damages:

'Drove ashore, the Swallow, Hughes, of Liverpool, 'at Cape Mount. Burnt the Cape Coast, Green, of ditto. 'Ditto the Eagle, Wickam, of Rhode-Island. Ditto the 'St. Jago, Glinn, of London. A Snow, and the Queen 'of of Hungary, Fox. both of London, taken and made Privateers of. The Corker, ——, of Liverpool, ſaved by the Fort.'

By a Letter from Capt. Taylor of the Daking, dated from Mounts Bay, and bound from Cheſter to London, we are inform'd, that he was chas'd by a Spaniſh Privateer, and got under the Cannon of Mounts Bay; and that the Captain of a ſmall Sloop told him, the ſame Privateer had taken two Ships. She is a Dogger built and rigg'd.

The Right Hon. the Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty have appointed Capt. Stapleton to be Captain of the Prince of Orange, a 70 Gun Ship.

Their Lordſhips have likewiſe appointed Lieutenant Lloyd to be Firſt Lieutenant of the ſaid Ship.

And alſo to appoint Lieutenant Ruſſel to be Firſt Lieutenant of the Berwick.

There are two fine Aloe Trees now in Bloſſom at Hampton Court Gardens, which are reckon'd as great a Curioſity as ever was ſeen in England.

Yeſterday died in New Bondſtreet the Counteſs of Caſtlehaven, Relict of James Touchet, Baron Audley of Heleigh, and Earl of Caſtlehaven in the Kingdom of Ireland.

His Anceſtor was ſummoned to Parliament the 28th of Edward I. and created Earl the 14th of James the Firſt.

On Tueſday died at his Seat at Coney-Hatch, John Sleath, Eſq; a Gentleman of a large Eſtate.
